What does Greg Frankson bring to the table?

Cytopoetics provides a wide variety of creative services, including facilitation for your workshop, conference or meeting. Greg Frankson is an experienced workshop leader and facilitator with the skills necessary to keep things moving so the objectives you set out are met. His facilitation background includes anti-discrimination and anti-racism, leadership, multiculturalism and diversity, mental health, organizational change, youth, and policy planning.

Greg is an Ontario Certified Teacher (OCT) and a member in good standing of the Ontario College of Teachers. His educational background equips him with the necessary competencies to analyze your needs and deliver in a way that respects the learning styles of participants. His accreditation as an anti-discrimination facilitator as well as his twenty years of experience in the field provide the knowledge and background needed to help you get results.

Greg Frankson is also a professional performance artist who has appeared at events, conferences and festivals across Canada, in the United States and overseas. If you need an emcee, he has hosted numerous shows, meetings and conferences and could be a perfect fit for your event.

Greg's engaging demeanour and dedication to excellence will achieve results for your organization creatively, effectively and energetically!

What else can you get from Cytopoetics?

We also offer the following services to business, education and the community:
